

ABOUT THE CENTER FOR CONTEMPORARY PRINTMAKING

The Center for Contemporary Printmaking was founded as a nonprofit 501(c)(3) in 1995 by Grace and William Shanley and a group of like-minded artists and community leaders. From its beginning, CCP's mission has been to support, preserve, and advance the art of original prints. The Center is dedicated to increasing awareness, knowledge, and appreciation for prints and the process of printmaking through exhibitions, publications, educational programs, and artist workshops.

CCP is located in the historic stone carriage house of the Lockwood-Mathews Mansion in Norwalk, CT. This state-of-the-art printmaking facility is equipped with five intaglio presses, one lithographic press, a Vandercook press, an hydraulic press, an acid room, silkscreen facilities, a paper mill, a metal shear, an exposure table for photo-plate making, and a digital studio for printmaking projects. The Grace Ross Shanley Gallery hosts numerous exhibitions throughout the year.

The Helen Frankenthaler Printmaking Cottage is the home of the Artist-in-Residence Program and is equipped with two intaglio presses, a small kitchen and living accommodations for both printmaking and overnight guests.

ADDITIONAL OPPORTUNITIES TO SUPPORT CCP

EDITIONS CLUB MEMBERSHIP $75/year

The Editions Club program provides a unique opportunity to build and expand a print collection for both new and established collectors. The annual membership of $75 grants subscribers access to exclusive prices on four to six editions CCP will publish that year. Editions Club subscribers will also be able to take advantage of other opportunities to purchase prints that CCP will share exclusively to the Editions Club. A portion of the membership cost is tax deductible and supports CCP's Editions Club Fellowship program providing a talented high school student with an immersive summer printmaking opportunity. Learn more about our Editions Club online at www.contemprints.org or to subscribe contact us at 203-899-7999 or jakers@contemprints.org.

ENDOWMENT SUPPORT

Efforts to grow CCP's endowment are integral to the long-term fiscal stability and support for the organization's operating budget. Money contributed to the endowment is invested and managed as a permanent financial asset while producing investment returns through interest.

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM SUPPORT

CCP's Grace Ross Shanley Memorial Scholarship funds opportunities for high school students throughout Fairfield County, Connecticut and the larger metropolitan region with the aim of educating future printmakers. The scholarship underwrites a program in which talented high school students to come weekly to the Center to learn printmaking and develop their portfolio of work as well as paying student entry fees for participation in our annual Monothon Print Week.

ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAM SPONSORSHIP

The Center's competitive artist residency program provides mature or emerging artists the opportunity to realize their printmaking projects independently or in collaboration with the Center's printing staff while staying in the Helen Frankenthaler Printmaking Cottage. The Program attracts artists from print centers around the world. Artists wishing to be considered for the residency program are welcome to apply using the application form on our website. Sponsorships are available to support the program and individual artists.

GIFTS-IN-KIND

Each year CCP receives generous donations of goods and services helping the Center to stay current with technology and to present historical and innovative printmaking techniques to established artists.

PLANNED GIVING

Individuals wishing to establish a planned gift to CCP either during lifetime or as part of estate planning should contact CCP's Executive Director for further information.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP

CCP is located in an historic landmark 19th century stone carriage house at 299 West Avenue in the Mathews Park cultural complex in Norwalk. The space is an architectural gem that has been transformed into an important and dynamic printmaking facility and gallery space. It is fully equipped to accommodate all printmaking techniques: intaglio, lithography, monotype, silkscreen, woodblock printing, papermaking, book arts and digital processes.

It serves as an oasis of creativity where emerging and professional artists from throughout Fairfield County, the tri-state area, and beyond are experimenting and learning traditional and contemporary print techniques. Artist members of the Center may use the printmaking studio facilities for their own projects. Members are also encouraged to take part in the many workshops scheduled throughout the year with invited instructors teaching printmaking and related processes for interested beginners through advanced artists. Various member-only exhibitions, events, and discounts are available at all levels of membership.
