

Session 1 Residency

December 1, 2022 – February 28, 2023

Application due date: July 1, 2022

About the Artist-in-Residence Program

---

The Artist-in-Residence Program (AIR) at the Center for Contemporary Printmaking takes place in the recently remodeled Helen Frankenthaler Printmaking Cottage. Within this space artists have the opportunity to produce a body of work in a supportive atmosphere for creative growth and development—using traditional as well as innovative printmaking techniques. The intention of the residency is to offer artists uninterrupted time and privacy 24/7 in a well-equipped studio with onsite living accommodations. This residency has proven to be an ideal opportunity for experimentation and collaboration. Artists can add to their work practice, explore new mediums, create an edition, or otherwise advance their printmaking skills. CCP strives to advance outcomes from the residency that stimulate original and inventive work that the artist might not otherwise have attempted absent these amenities.

Residency Structure and Session Schedule

CCP offers four application-based residencies per year, one during each 3 month session.

Sessions are defined as follows:

- Session 1: December – February
- Session 2: March – May
- Session 3: June - August
- Session 4: September – November

Artists applying may request a one or two week stay during these periods.

Residency Types

1. Professional Development Residency – Artists teaching at colleges, universities, and high schools throughout the United States are invited to apply for one- or two-week residency based on professional funding guidelines at your institution. This opportunity is meant to further individual artistic objectives in printmaking. CCP will match 50 percent of residency costs to a maximum of $2,500 associated with the AIR. Travel, food, and materials are not covered expenses. The Grace Ross Shanley Education Fund and other secured funds will provide underwriting for the matching funding.

2. Self-funding – All costs related to the project and cottage stay will be the responsibility of the artist unless funding assistance provided through CCP agreed to prior to residency start date.
3. CCP funded – In an attempt to expand opportunities for artists who may not have other funding, CCP has offered to underwrite funding for artists applying for Session 3 (Summer) only. Artists with other funding are not excluded from applying to Session 3.

One of the goals of our residency programs, whether Professional Development or Self-funded, is engaging our local community in an exchange of ideas and techniques. Artists participating in any of CCP's residencies will have the opportunity to conduct a studio talk or workshop for CCP artists/members and other artists in the Norwalk community and greater New York metropolitan area. CCP will work with the artist to schedule and promote the additional programming through various outreach methods, including social media, to ensure a broad audience.

A print or set of prints created during the residency will be retained by CCP to be included in our print archive as a record of the artist's time at CCP.

About the Center for Contemporary Printmaking

Founded in 1995, the Center for Contemporary Printmaking (CCP) is a non-profit art center in Mathews Park, Norwalk, CT. The Center's mission is to support, preserve, and advance the art of original prints, including all forms of printmaking, papermaking, book arts, digital processes, and related disciplines. Artists regionally and from around the world showcase their work-for a broad and diverse audience at the Center.

In summer of 2003 the Center welcomed its first Artist-in-Residence, Paul Furneaux, from Scotland. Over the past 13 years, some 150 artists have completed residencies at CCP. They have come from all over the United States and from Australia, Russia, China, Ireland, Germany, Cuba, Argentina and many more.

The Helen Frankenthaler Printmaking Cottage — adjacent to CCP's main arts studios and galleries — testifies to the important relationship that Frankenthaler had with the Center from its earliest days. Her legacy lives on at the Center not only through the press that she donated, but through the vision and expertise that she shared with CCP artists and staff over time, which continue to inspire us all.

CCP conducts approximately 70 printmaking workshops per year, and mounts six thematic, invitational or juried exhibitions annually — one of which is a members' show — in the Grace Ross Shanley Gallery. Each exhibition is usually accompanied by a smaller exhibition on the walls of the nearby Lithography Studio.

A competitive Artist-in-Residence Program in Helen Frankenthaler Printmaking Cottage hosts approximately 12 national and international artists per year. Founded on the apprenticeship model inherent to printmaking, the Grace Ross Shanley Memorial Scholarship Foundation Fellowship serves up to four high school juniors and four high school seniors per year.

The Center is outfitted with 13 presses and all ancillary technical and safety equipment and supplies throughout its two buildings; one of which is a 39" x 72" press donated by artist Helen Frankenthaler. Studio rental space in both the main building and cottage are available for rent.

Its well-equipped studios, workshop offerings, and professional print shows mounted in the Grace Ross Shanley Gallery — recently cited by Culturetrip as one of Connecticut's top ten contemporary art galleries — enrich the lives of individuals who work in and visit the Center, both from throughout Fairfield County, Westchester, and well beyond.
